The election of Jorge Mario Bergoglio, the first Latin American Pope and the first Jesuit Pope, was a surprise for everyone. The new Pope has made an impact with his simplicity and closeness starting with his first greeting from the balcony of St. Peters basilica, when he said that the Cardinals had gone to look for a bishop for Rome to the 'ends of the Earth', prayed with the people and qualified the role of the Church as a 'path of fraternity, of love, and confidence amongst us.' His subsequent gestures continue to make an impact, breaking many molds and continue breaking the present. There is no doubt: there is a new charisma taking the helm of Peter's ship. This book starts with another surprise, Feb. 11th, when Benedict XVI announced his resignation; and contains the most significant in the farewell of the Pope Emeritus, relating step by step the election of Pope Francisco and the reactions it prompted; it includes the principal biographical data of the new Pope and recounts, especially his gestures and messages in the first days, that the reader will find amply complied. It is the chronicle of several intense weeks, full of news that has surprised the Church and the world.
